Attachment

Discontinues sales of fish caught from platform or hook and line fisheries in the mainstem Columbia River after 6:00 p.m. October 16, 2009. The mainstem platform and hook and line fishery will remain open for subsistence use. Continues to allow sales of fish caught during the Yakama Nation tributary fisheries in Drano Lake, White Salmon and Klickitat rivers.. Harvest of Upriver Bright Chinook and Group B steelhead is expected to remain within the allocation and guidelines of the 2008-2017 Management Agreement. Rule is consistent with action of the Columbia River Compact on October 2 and October 12, 2009. Conforms state rules with tribal rules. There is insufficient time to adopt permanent rules.

New regulations for 2009 include fisheries that are described in the MOA between Washington State and the Yakama Nation. Yakama Nation tribal members will be allowed to fish for subsistence purposes within a specific area of the Washington shoreline below Bonneville Dam when open for enrolled Yakama Nation members under lawfully enacted Yakama Nation tribal subsistence fisheries. Sales will be allowed when the open fishery is concurrent with either commercial gillnet openings or platform gear in Zone 6 (SMCRA 1F, 1G, 1H). Sales of fish caught in this fishery (below Bonneville Dam) are consistent with mainstem Zone 6 (SMCRA 1F, 1G, 1H) allowable sales, with the exception of sturgeon (which may not be sold or kept for subsistence purposes in the fishery below Bonneville Dam).

The Yakama, Warm Springs, Umatilla, and Nez Perce Indian Tribes have treaty fishing rights in the Columbia River and inherent sovereign authority to regulate their fisheries. Washington and Oregon also have some authority to regulate fishing by treaty Indians in the Columbia River, authority that the states exercise jointly under the Congressionally-ratified Columbia River Compact. Sohappy v. Smith, 302 F. Supp. 899 (D. Or. 1969). The Tribes and the States adopt parallel regulations for Treaty Indian fisheries under the supervision of the federal courts. Some salmon and steelhead stocks in the Columbia River are listed as threatened or endangered under the federal Endangered Species Act.

Columbia River fisheries are monitored very closely to ensure consistency with court orders and Endangered Species Act guidelines. Because conditions change rapidly, the fisheries are managed almost exclusively by emergency rule. As required by court order, the Washington and Oregon Departments of Fish and Wildlife convene public hearings and invite tribal participation when considering proposals for new emergency rules affecting treaty fishing rights. Sohappy, 302 F. Supp. at 912. WDFW and ODFW then adopt regulations reflecting agreements reached.
