

ORDERING PRIORITY HABITATS AND SPECIES INFORMATION FROM THE WASHINGTON DEPARTMENT OF FISH AND WILDLIFE

The Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife (WDFW) maintains a number of databases that contain information about the locations of important fish and wildlife species that should be considered in land use decisions and activities. Use of this information in the earliest planning stages can help minimize project conflicts and delays due to fish and wildlife issues. Wise land use activities can assist in preventing fish and wildlife species from becoming listed as endangered and threatened or can help recover those that are already listed.

WDFW provides standard products that answer the most common questions concerning the presence of important fish, wildlife, and habitats. Below are instructions for ordering information and brief descriptions of standard products and costs. Contact WDFW at (360) 902-2543 with questions.

SENSITIVE WILDLIFE INFORMATION

Information on specific locations of some fish and wildlife species are considered sensitive, and access to that information is restricted by WDFW policy. If you are one of the following parties: Government agency; Tribe; Researcher affiliated with an accredited college or university; Private landowner of their own lands (or other parties with permission from the land-owner); or Agents of the above parties (e.g., consultants, realtors etc.) then you may be able to receive sensitive data by filling out a Sensitive Release Agreement. Once your Order Form is received it will be determined if you qualify and then will be sent an agreement. All those that do not qualify or are not listed in the parties above may receive generalized data.

WDFW periodically updates the Priority Habitat and Species List, mapped and digital data, and management recommendations as additional information becomes available. Because fish and wildlife species are mobile and because habitats and species information changes, project reviews for fish and wildlife should not rest solely on mapped information. Additionally, new information gathered from current field investigations should also be considered. Remember, habitat and species information can only show that a species or habitat type is present; they cannot show that a species or habitat type is not present. For questions about how the information you receive may apply to a specific project or site, contact the WDFW Habitat Biologist, in your Regional Office, at:

REQUESTER READ AND SIGN

By receiving fish and wildlife information from the Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife (WDFW), you incur an obligation to use it in a way that does not cause undue harm to our public fish and wildlife resources.

All fish and wildlife species are vulnerable to harm from human activities. Harm can occur directly (e.g., an animal is harassed or injured) or indirectly (e.g., a nest tree is felled or a wetland is drained). Harm can occur unintentionally, even by those who value the fish and wildlife resources (e.g., repeated visits to a heron rookery which flushes birds from the nest and exposes eggs to cold weather and predators). The most serious threats to fish and wildlife, rather than being direct and malicious acts, are indirect human actions where harm to fish and wildlife was unintentional.

The Washington State constitution confers fish and wildlife ownership to all citizens of the state. WDFW is mandated to safeguard this ownership by preserving, protecting and perpetuating fish and wildlife resources. The public has a crucial role in fulfilling this mandate, for two reasons. First, the statewide distribution of fish and wildlife species and habitat is beyond the monitoring capability of any single agency. Second, the state's constitution gives to the people ownership of fish and wildlife but not of the habitat on which fish and wildlife's survival ultimately depends. Property owners are also habitat owners and their collective actions have a profound effect on the state's fish and wildlife.

WDFW provides information on the location of many of Washington's most sensitive and vulnerable fish and wildlife resources. Use of this information must be commensurate with the vulnerability of fish and wildlife resources and with the conditions outlined in WDFW Releasing Sensitive Fish and Wildlife Information Policy 5210.

Fish and wildlife species are protected through specific legislation. Regulations most applicable to users of WDFW information include RCW 77.16.120 (taking of protected fish and wildlife), WAC 232-12-292 (Bald Eagle protection rules), WAC 232-12-064 (live fish and wildlife) and RCW 42.56.430 (exempting of sensitive fish and wildlife information from public inspection and copying).

I have read and understand the information above and certify that this form is filled out accurately and completely to the best of my knowledge. I understand that I will receive an invoice itemizing the costs for this request and instructions for submitting payment.
