Agenda item: HATCHERY POLICY C-3619 REVIEW – BRIEFING, PUBLIC COMMENT
Presenter(s): Laurie Peterson, Fish Science Division Manager

Background summary:
At the June 15, 2018 Fish and Wildlife Commission (FWC) meeting, the FWC directed the agency to conduct a review of all sections and aspects of the Hatchery and Fishery Reform Policy (C-3619). Subsequently, the following primary project elements emerged:

- Policy Review (Commission Assignment)
  - Science Update and Synthesis, including Emerging Science (led by WDFW; facilitated by Washington State Academy of Sciences)
  - Policy Performance Evaluation document (led by WDFW)
  - Joint Co-manager Hatchery Benefits document – will be authored by tribal and state co-managers examine the socio-ecological role of hatcheries, tribal legal considerations, and the ecosystem services provided by hatcheries.

- Engage Tribal Co-managers in Policy development
- Public Outreach and Engagement (led by consultant and WDFW)
- Commission considers final reports and policy recommendations (synthesizing information from the three documents above, incorporating input from tribes, partners, stakeholders, and the public).

On Feb. 6th, 2020 the FWC Commission and WDFW Fish Program scientists participated in a workshop in which the key findings from the Science Review report were summarized and discussed.

On April 9th, 2020, the FWC Commission and WDFW Fish Program scientists participated in a workshop in which the key findings from the Policy Performance Evaluation report were summarized and discussed.
