EMERGENCY RULE

Under RCW 34.05.350 the agency for good cause finds:

- That immediate adoption, amendment, or repeal of a rule is necessary for the preservation of the public health, safety, or general welfare, and that observing the time requirements of notice and opportunity to comment upon adoption of a permanent rule would be contrary to the public interest.
- That state or federal law or federal rule or a federal deadline for state receipt of federal funds requires immediate adoption of a rule.
- That in order to implement the requirements or reductions in appropriations enacted in any budget for fiscal year 2009, 2010, 2011, 2012, or 2013, which necessitates the need for the immediate adoption, amendment, or repeal of a rule, and that observing the time requirements of notice and opportunity to comment upon adoption of a permanent rule would be contrary to the fiscal needs or requirements of the agency.

Reasons for this finding: The intent of the fishery is removal of excess hatchery fall chinook from the Upper Columbia River Basin while also providing additional angling opportunity. Over 80,000 Chinook primarily from the Hanford Reach fall chinook hatchery programs have returned above Priest Rapids Dam, including over 18,000 above Rock Island Dam. In addition, an estimated 30,000 or more coho are expected to return this year above Priest Rapids Dam and are in excess of spawning escapement and hatchery broodstock needs. Neither population is listed under the Endangered Species Act (ESA). There is insufficient time to adopt permanent rules.

ORDER NO. 14-284

NEW SECTION

WAC 220-310-20000V Freshwater exceptions to statewide rules—Columbia River.

Notwithstanding the provisions of WAC 220-310-200, effective October 4 through November 30, 2014, it is permissible to fish for salmon in waters of the Columbia River from Priest Rapids Dam to 400' below Chief Joseph Dam with the following restrictions:

- (1) Daily limit six chinook salmon (marked or unmarked), of which only three may be adult Chinook, and two coho salmon.
- (2) Minimum size 12 inches.
- (3) Selective gear rules apply (single barbless hooks or flies, knotless nets), except bait is permissible.
- (4) Night closure is in effect.
- (5) Release all floy (anchor) tagged coho.

REPEALER

The following section of the Washington Administrative Code is repealed effective December 1, 2014:

WAC 220-310-20000V Freshwater exceptions to statewide rules—Columbia River.

EMERGENCY RULE ONLY

Under RCW 34.05.350 the agency for good cause finds:

(x) That immediate adoption, amendment, or repeal of a rule is necessary for the preservation of the public health, safety, or general welfare, and that observing the time requirements of notice and opportunity to comment upon adoption of a permanent rule would be contrary to the public interest.

() That state or federal law or federal rule or a federal deadline for state receipt of federal funds requires immediate adoption of a rule.

() That in order to implement the requirements or reductions in appropriations enacted in any budget for fiscal years 2009, 2010, 2011, 2012 or 2013, which necessitates the need for the immediate adoption, amendment, or repeal of a rule, and that observing the time requirements of notice and opportunity to comment upon adoption of a permanent rule would be contrary to the fiscal needs or requirements of the agency.

Reasons for this finding: The intent of the fishery is removal of excess hatchery fall chinook from the Upper Columbia River Basin while also providing additional angling opportunity. Over 80,000 Chinook primarily from the Hanford Reach fall chinook hatchery programs have returned above Priest Rapids Dam, including over 18,000 above Rock Island Dam.
