
Steelhead retention and night fishing were closed in August 2018 to limit steelhead impacts after the estimated Asteemed Tetenden and mant histing were closed in Hagust 2010 to him steemed impacts after the estimated H index run-size was significantly reduced from pre-season forecast. Passage of upriver summer steelhead at Bonneville Dam tends to be nearly complete by November 1, therefore the emergency closures are no longer necessary.
This rule is also needed to close salmon retention on the Lewis River from the mouth to Johnson Creek, as well as to close all fishing from Johnson Creek to Colvin Creek and in Cedar Creek from the mouth to Grist Mill Bridge. The Lewis River wild fall chinook salmon run is tracking below the pre-season forecast and is currently projected not to meet the escapement goal for this population. The hatchery coho return is also tracking well below forecast and the hatchery broodstock goals. Closing the lower Lewis River and Cedar Creek to salmon retention will increase the number of wild chinook spawning, the number coho returning to the Lewis River Hatchery, and help ensure fishing opportunities in future years. There is insufficient time to adopt permanent rules.
