Effective date of rule:

Emergency Rules

- Immediately upon filing.
- Later (specify)

Any other findings required by other provisions of law as precondition to adoption or effectiveness of rule?

- Yes
  - No
- If Yes, explain:

Purpose: The purpose of this emergency rule is to delay the season opening of the coastal commercial Dungeness crab season in all Washington coastal areas due to high levels of the marine biotoxin, domoic acid. The commercial season delay will extend south to Cape Falcon, Oregon in order to prosecute an orderly fishery in areas where participation overlaps state lines. This emergency rule also requires notification to the WDFW Enforcement Program if a vessel participates in the commercial Dungeness crab fishery in areas that are not closed (south of Cape Falcon, Oregon) and transit those crab for delivery into Washington ports. This notification is necessary to enforce the season delay and prevent toxic crab from being harvested or landed. A fair start provision, which will require any vessel that participates in the coastal crab fishery south of Cape Falcon, Oregon that opens before the closed area, to wait 30-days after the closed area opens before participating in the delayed area. This fair start provision is necessary to provide fishery participants that chose to wait and start in the delayed area a fair opportunity to harvest crab without competition from those that have already landed crab in other areas. This fair start is also necessary to protect harvest sharing agreements in tribal co-managed areas north of Point Chehalis that are also delayed due to domoic acid and to provide for agreed to head start provisions.

EMERGENCY RULE

Under RCW 34.05.350 the agency for good cause finds:

- That immediate adoption, amendment, or repeal of a rule is necessary for the preservation of the public health, safety, or general welfare, and that observing the time requirements of notice and opportunity to comment upon adoption of a permanent rule would be contrary to the public interest.
- That state or federal law or federal rule or a federal deadline for state receipt of federal funds requires immediate adoption of a rule.

Reasons for this finding: The area north of Cape Falcon, Oregon, extending to the U.S. Canadian border is closed to the state commercial fishery due to elevated levels of the marine toxin domoic acid which were tested in crab viscera off Long Beach, WA. Notification of transit through the closed area is required to enforce this closure and prevent toxic crab from being harvested or landed. The 30-day fair start delay is needed to provide a fair start for vessels impacted by the closure due to marine toxins. The coastal commercial Dungeness crab fishery is highly competitive and the value from the fishery is highest during the first several weeks of the season when crab abundance and CPUE are the highest. Opening the fishery without fair start provision would have a significant economic impact on participants who chose to fish in areas that have been delay if participation was not restricted to prohibit those that have already started the fishery in areas that opened earlier from moving to the delayed area for 30-days after that area opens. The states of Oregon and California will impose the same delay. There is insufficient time to adopt permanent rules.
